

Harvest time at La Finca, a community supported farm in Willow River, Minnesota.

SARAH HANNIGAN PHOTO, CLOTHPAPERSTRING.COM

“Now so many of us have lost our jobs, our savings—we are starting new businesses out of our garages. Out of our personal computers. We discover that our hobbies can make money. We teach in the home. Trading, bartering, thrifting... we are doing what we can. We are making things. The old shuttered storefronts can be re-opened ...

“This is the basic healing that we need now across our country ... We are getting to know each other again. This is the stuff of our new economy. It will grow and we won't let it go this time.”

yes!
magazine

www.yesmagazine.org

Reprinted from the “New Economy” Issue, Summer 2009

REV. BILLY

ACTIVIST AND FOUNDER OF THE CHURCH OF LIFE AFTER SHOPPING