

“INJUSTICE ANYWHERE IS A THREAT TO JUSTICE EVERYWHERE.”

Martin Luther King Jr.

Letter from Birmingham Jail, April 16, 1963

Ronald Jones is photographed at the scene of his arrest in Chicago, Ill. He served a decade on death row for rape and murder before he was exonerated through DNA testing and the work of the nonprofit Innocence Project (innocenceproject.org). Jones and other exonerees are featured in The Innocents, a project by photographer Taryn Simon and the Innocence Project, documenting the stories of 40 exonerees who served years in prison for violent crimes they did not commit.

Photo essay of The Innocents: YesMagazine.org/innocents

© 2003 TARYN SIMON AND THE INNOCENCE PROJECT
FROM THE INNOCENTS, UMBRAGE EDITIONS